DAILY TRIBUNE.

CITY OF CHICAGO.

MONDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 12, 1855.

THE NEWS.

The first mail from Springfield since the storm of the 20th reached here on Saturday, and we are enabled this morning to lay before our readers four very interesting letters from our correspondent at the capital, to which we can only refer in this brief manner.

We also publish this morning another letter from our Eastern correspondent, written from New York, which will be found very readable.

A correspondent furnishes us with an exposition of his method of getting rid of the evil imposed upon the business community of this State, by the prevalence of Wild Cat Banks. In the multitude of counsellors there is wisdom, and we give place to his communication, although aware that as our Legislature adjourns on Thursday next, the views he presents can be of little practical benefit at present.

A letter from our correspondent at Madison, published this morning, will be found quite interesting and amusing. It exposes a little of the secret financial management of the Locofoco Governor of Wisconsin, in no very creditable light to that functionary. We are glad to hear our correspondent express himself so firmly convinced that the Prohibitory Liquor Law will pass the Assembly of Wisconsin this Winter.—We sincerely trust he may not be too sanguine.

A young, very young, but talented lady correspondent, who has frequently written for this paper, favors us to-day with "A Sketch," which will be found to possess much merit.

Sheriff Wadsworth, of Rochester, has offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of the body of Emma Moore, dead or alive, and the same reward for the recovery of the murderers. This reward has not been authorized by the Supervisors, but there is no doubt it would be paid, if the chance of winning it should incite to successful effort. There is also a reward of $200 offered by Mr. Whitney, and a reward offered by the Mayor, of $500, we believe.

We read in the Southwestern papers some incredible accounts of the emigration to Texas. For instance, the Galveston Times of January 7, says that such was the rush of emigration Westward, that wagons had to wait at Waco two weeks before their turn came to cross the Brazos river, and that the news from every thoroughfare of travel in Texas was of a similar character.

The Cleveland Herald reports that Mr. and Mrs. Jacox, elderly people, residing in Avon, Lorain county, a few nights ago went to bed with burning charcoal in their sleeping room, and suffocated from its fumes during the night. Mr. J. was found dead, and Mrs. J. survived but a few hours. They were aged about 60.

Over 1000 workmen are now at work in the navy yard, Charlestown, the greater proportion of which are engaged on the new frigate Merrimac. The Saratoga is in the dry-dock, and being refitted.

New York is getting to be a second Mexico for highway robberies. John Ryan, while riding on horseback through 44th street, on Sunday night, was knocked off his horse by two ruffians, and the animal driven off by them.

The value of imports at New York last week were $2,455,976—in 1854, $4,199,317, being a decrease of $1,743,317. The exports are $1,357,023 against $918,943 last year, showing an excess of $1,038,122. The exports of specie during the year thus far, have been only $166,831, against $1,993,343 same time last year. Sterling was then 8 1-2 to 9 1-4 about the same rates as at present. The amount of gold received from California thus far, this year, is $4,431,112, against $3,710,000 last year during the same period. The Sub-Treasury here then contained $4,700,000 against $3,772,000 now, including $1,000,000 just transferred from Boston.

Andrew Hookren, resident in Brooklyn, went last week and with audacious hand wrote in the complaint book of the Mayor of the city as follows: "Andrew Hookren, Atlantic street, defies all authority to stop him from selling liquor; says he has been in jail for one month, but should not stop selling for that, and would continue in the same business in defiance of all authority; that there is no freedom in this country; that he sold liquor yesterday in spite of the law, and would sell again, and if he had a ladder long enough, he would take the scales of justice from the City Hall, as they were a false representation of the business done inside of that building."

SPEECH OF MR. LOVEJOY.

In our Springfield correspondence this morning will be found a report of the speech delivered by Mr. Owen Lovejoy, the Republican Member of the Assembly from Bureau County, delivered in the House of Representatives at Springfield, in the debate upon the resolutions of instructions to our Senators offered by him. We do not hazard the truth by saying that we judge it to be one of the ablest, if not the very ablest speeches made in the assembly this winter, and will do much toward placing Mr. LOVEJOY where his talents and virtues entitle him to stand, in the front rank of the Statesmen and philanthropists of our state.

Extra copies of the TRIBUNE, containing this speech can be had by early application at our Counting Room this morning.

THE PROHIBITORY LIQUOR LAW.

After undergoing sundry amendments at the hands of the Senate, passed that body on the night of the 9th inst., by a vote of 17 to 7. The amendments are reported to be somewhat as follows:

To strike out the clause providing that the law shall go into effect in January, 1857, whether approved by a vote of the people or not.

Making it lawful to manufacture and sell Lager beer by the barrel.

Also permitting the manufacture of high wines and alcohol, and their sale within the State under license.

If the House concur in these amendments, as it is likely they will do as the time for action is so rapidly growing less, the Governor will most probably approve the Bill, and then we shall have the decision of the people upon it.

THE FLORENCES.

Have been playing a very brilliant engagement at St. Louis. They are the greatest popular favorites who visit that city, if we can judge from the extravagant praises lavished upon them by the Press. They will shortly play in this city, when we shall, doubtless have better houses at the Temple of the Drama, than have lately flocked thither.

STRAWS.

The Washington Sentinel, a paper owned and controlled by Senator Douglas, has been endeavoring for several days past, to enforce the allegations that the Know Nothing party of the North, has coalesced with the Free Soil party. It makes out a pretty strong case, and we guess it is about correct.

BRITISH PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

Republication of the LONDON QUARTERLY, THE EDINBURGH, THE NORTH BRITISH, and THE WESTMINSTER REVIEWS, and BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE. Leonard Scott & Co., publishers, 79 Fulton and 54 Gold-st., New York.

We invite the special attention of our readers to the advertisement of these sterling periodical works, which will be found in another place.—These Reviews are the censors of the British literary world. They fill a place which American Magazines cannot supply; for they discuss topics relating to the political, religious, scientific, and literary affairs of the continent of Europe. They are conducted by the best talent of Great Britain.

The Edinburgh Review is the exponent of the Whig party in Great Britain, and advocates the rights of the people. To counteract its powerful influence, the leaders of the Tory party established

The London Quarterly Review. The two great political parties thus made strenuous efforts through their respective organs, for the promulgation of their antagonist principles; and during a long series of years, these two leading periodicals have concentrated the labors, the talent, and the influence of the adherents of the Whig and Tory parties of Great Britain.

The Westminster Review is devoted to the topics that interest the mass of the people, and opposes Tory privileges, hereditary rights, kingly prerogative, &c.

The North British Review has for its object the Evangelization of the 19th century, although it is not to be considered strictly as a theological work.

Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine is devoted to classical literature, biography, historical and fictitious narratives, poetry, criticisms of new books, &c. Among its contributors may be mentioned Professor Wilson, Dr. Warren, author of "Ten Thousand a Year," and Sir Edward Lytton Bulwer. By an arrangement with the British Publishers, early sheets of these Magazines are forwarded to this country so as to enable the American Publishers to issue their re-print before the original edition arrives. They are thus sure to be in the market before any of their contents can be published in other forms.

The present time, the beginning of the year, is the best time to subscribe. For terms and [illegible] advertisement.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

SPRINGFIELD, Saturday, Feb. 3, 1855.

The House this morning, was full, excepting four members, Messrs. Hackney, Day and Lee, (Republicans) and Mr. Heath, (Nebraskaite). The three former are expected in a day or two, and the latter it is said, will not be here again, as he went home during the long recess, and declared his intention of not returning again. If so, it makes some amends for the loss of Don Morrison, of the Senate, who has openly gone over to the Nebraskaites, and assumed the leadership of the party.

The Republicans (all that were here) had a meeting on Saturday evening, and took an informal ballot for Senator. A large majority was for Mr. Lincoln, and it now looks as if he will get the full Republican vote.

The Nebraskaites also held a meeting, but it was not unanimous. Though all hope of electing Shields is given up, several of the members adhere to his fortunes. Bissell is not thought of by the Nebraskaites, and Trumbull stands in about the same position with the Anti-Nebraska party. Three weeks ago I informed you that Gov. Matteson, though refusing to receive a nomination from the Nebraskaites stood a better chance of being elected by them than any other person. The facts that have come to my knowledge, since I returned here, confirm the correctness of that opinion. At the caucus on Saturday night, there was an understanding that he would be voted for, after the first few ballots, though two or three were refractory. How far he can satisfy them in reference to the slavery question, it is impossible to say. It is also said he has secured the vote of three or four Northern members; but this depends upon circumstances. They will only support him when it is necessary to defeat the election of Bissell, Shields, or some prominent Nebraskaite, and then only upon such pledges from him, as will place them right before their constituents.

There is also a report in circulation—how it originated I know not—that the Governor will take a nomination from the Republican party and stand on the Republican Platform; and I believe that he would get a majority of the vote of the members of that party, were he take such a position. It is not probable, however, that he has given any one authority, even by intimation, to speak for him, and especially in a way that would separate him from the party with which he has been acting, nominally, at least.

The House, to-day, laid upon the table a resolution to go into the election of Senator to-morrow. Subsequently, the Senate passed a resolution to go into an election, to-morrow at three o'clock. As Messrs. Hackney, Day and Lee are absent, it was no doubt thought by the Nebraskaites that the election could be forced on before the return of the three gentlemen named, and then the Nebraskaites would have a decided advantage. This scheme will be defeated, however, for upon Judge Logan's motion, it will be deferred to Thursday, at which time we expect to have our full force here.

The approach of the Senatorial question creates a vast amount of political feeling, and political resolutions follow each other rapidly.

On Saturday a resolution was offered by Mr. Gray, (Nebraska Whig—a sort of yellow black-bird) endorsing the Whig and Democratic platforms of 1852. The resolutions could not be denied, and so they were voted down,—only eight Whigs voting for them with very few Nebraskaites.

Immediately after, Mr. Higbee, of Pike, a leader of the Nebraskaites, offered a resolution, approving of the Compromise measures of 1850, and remonstrating against the repeal of any of them, especially the Fugitive Slave Law. This passed—all the Nebraska members and ten Whigs voting for it. The intention was evidently to create bad blood between the Republicans and Whigs, and to some extent it succeeded, though not as fully as was expected. I now understand that Dr. Beal of Marshall county will move a reconsideration of the vote, and if carried, it is intended to lay the original resolution of Mr. Higbee on the table.

To-day, Mr. Tanner of Jefferson, offered a resolution recognizing the doctrine of instruction to Senators, which was passed. Then he offered another, commending our Senators for voting for the Kansas Nebraska Bill—affirming that they obeyed their instructions in doing so. It was a nice trap, and only failed to catch the majority, because the majority had power to lay the last proposition on the table.

In the Senate, yesterday, a bill was introduced to incorporate the town of Macomb, with a provision authorizing the trustees to expel all colored people, or prevent them from coming within the corporation. This section was stricken out by the casting vote of Lieut. Governor, to his credit be it spoken. The Senate also passed the bill to cede to the U. S. jurisdiction over certain property in Chicago, bought for Post Office and Custom House.

The bill to incorporate the Cabinet Maker's Society of Chicago passed the House without opposition.

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 6th, 1 P. M.

Dr. Beal, of Marshall Co. yesterday moved a reconsideration of Mr. Higbee's resolution approving the Compromise measures of 1850. This resolution was carried by the Nebraskaites, with the aid of ten Whig votes. The object of Mr. Higbee was to place the Whigs and Republicans at loggerheads, and though it almost entirely failed of its purpose, still it was desirable to have it reconsidered and laid on the table. The motion to reconsider, however, failed, as all the Nebraskaites and several Whigs voted against it.

Mr. Higgins, of McHenry, offered the following resolutions, but they were voted down by a small majority:

Resolved, That taxation without representation is contrary to the spirit and genius of republicanism, and that as our colored people are taxed and denied the right to send their children to school, Therefore,

Resolved, That such course is a gross and flagrant violation of justice and calls loudly for reform.

Mr. Baker, Anti-Nebraska Democrat, of Madison County, offered the following resolutions, which, after a stormy debate of one hour, were adopted, ayes 38, noes 36.

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, that we are opposed to all acts of Congress which have for their object the extension and promulgation of slavery, and that the votes given by our senators and representatives in Congress in furtherance of such subject, meets with our strongest disapprobation.

Resolved, That our forefathers, regarding slavery as an evil, wisely placed restrictions upon the extension, in the passage of an act to prohibit the slave trade, known as the act of 1787, for the government of the north-western territory, and the act of 1820, known as the Missouri Compromise, and that we are opposed to the repeal of said acts.

Resolved, That we are opposed to the principle of non-intervention by Congress with the subject of slavery, since the establishment of such principle would require the repeal of the act of Congress prohibiting the African slave trade, and would lead to the revival of the abominable traffic.

The most valuable feature they possess is, that of denying the principle of "Non-Intervention." This leaves the subject open for Congressional action, so far as the action of the Anti-Nebraska democrats is concerned.

After some action on private matters, Mr. Lovejoy offered the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, Human slavery is a violation of the principles of natural and revealed right; and, whereas, the fathers of the revolution, fully imbued with the spirit of these principles, declared freedom to be the inalienable birthright of all men; and, whereas, the preamble to the Constitution of the United States avers that that instrument was ordained to establish justice, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity; and, whereas, in the furtherance of the above principles, slavery was forever prohibited in the old north-western territory, and more recently in all that territory lying north and west of the State of Missouri, by the act of the federal government; and, whereas, the repeal of the prohibition last referred to was contrary to the wishes of the people of the State of Illinois; a violation of an implied compact long sanctioned and held sacred by the citizens of the United States, and a wide departure from the uniform action of the general government in relation to the extension of slavery, Therefore,

Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, that our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to introduce, if not otherwise introduced, and to vote for a bill to restore such prohibition to the aforesaid territories, and also to extend a similar prohibition to all territory which now belongs to the United States, or which may hereafter come under their jurisdiction.

Resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to vote against the admission of any State into the Union, the Constitution of which does not prohibit slavery, whether the territory out of which such State may be formed, shall have been acquired by conquest, treaty, purchase, or from the original territory of the United States.

Resolved, That our Senators be instructed, and representatives requested, to introduce and vote for a bill to repeal an act entitled "An act respecting fugitives from justice, and persons escaping from the service of their masters," and failing in that, for such a modification of it as shall secure the right of habeas corpus and trial by jury, before the regularly constituted authorities of the State to all persons claimed as owing service or labor.

When Mr. L. had finished reading his resolutions, several Nebraskaites moved that they be laid on the table, but the Speaker said Mr. L. had the floor, and their motions were out of order. Mr. Lovejoy said he had been choked down by such motions upon [illegible], and he would give notice that it should not be done again, and now he intended to be heard.

Judge Logan hoped no interference would be offered to the discussion, and, after some private conversation between Mr. Lovejoy and several Nebraska members near him, he moved that the resolutions be set apart and made the special order for this afternoon. It was acceded to, and the House adjourned.

This is the first opportunity that Mr. Lovejoy has had to give his views upon all the political questions growing out of the Slavery question, and there is a very general feeling that he will "make the fur fly." Lovejoy is undoubtedly prepared, and will make a powerful and irresistible speech.

The Senate has also made the Prohibitory Law, which passed the House three weeks ago, the special order for this afternoon, and the discussion will doubtless attract a large audience. The Senate is very equally divided, and the Lieutenant Governor is openly opposed to all laws to restrict "free grog." I have not a doubt there is a majority who will vote for it on its final passage, if it is not emasculated by amendments. To amend it will be the tactics of the opposition, and, unfortunately, the friends of the measure in the Senate are not as they were in the House—united against all amendments.

The Senate resolution, passed yesterday, to go into the election of Senator this afternoon, came up in the House, and was amended by substituting Thursday instead of to-day, by a vote of 36 to 31. Judge Logan made the motion, and was influenced to do so by the fact that Mr. Lee, of Rock Island, is still absent, and the Republicans want to hold a caucus—a matter of importance in the new phase which the Senatorial question has assumed.

Judge Logan also offered a resolution, which was adopted, that makes the most searching inquiries of the Governor in reference to the disposition that has been made of certain funds of the State. It was undoubtedly instigated by various statements which have been circulated, to the effect that the Governor has been using the money and bonds of the State for his private purposes. These reports have assumed such a character that an investigation is demanded, not only by those whose duty it is to guard the interests of the State, but also by the friends of Gov. Matteson. I doubt not the Governor will be able to make an exposition that will exonerate him from all blame. Whatever may be said of his political opinions, no one who knows Gov. M. will accuse him of being the knave and fool that the charges made against him would indicate him to be.

TUESDAY NIGHT, Feb 6.

This has been a great day for the State and the cause of Humanity. For the first time in the history of Illinois, a regular Abolitionist, in his place in the Hall of the House of Representatives, has made a speech in defence of his principles, and hundreds of persons heard for the first time, the enunciation of such principles from one whose history and character are a guaranty that "he would nothing extenuate."

Long before the time for the meeting of the House, the gallery and lobby commenced filling up with ladies and gentlemen, and when Mr. Lovejoy commenced, all the seats and every position from which the speech could be heard, were occupied. Even the Prohibitory Liquor Law discussion, which excited the whole religious sentiment of the city, did not call out a larger audience, nor one so intelligent.

Mr. Lovejoy commenced by reading his resolutions, and then took each one up separately. The objects of the institution of our Government as evidenced by the principles promulged in the Declaration of Independence,—the silence of the Constitution on the subject of Slavery,—the enactment of the Ordinance of 1787, and the reasons therefor,—the early policy of the Government as indicated by the debates upon the Constitution at the time of its adoption, and the measures subsequently adopted by them,—and a review of the "Divine Right of Kings," in contradistinction to that pure Democracy which recognized the right of every man to himself,—the obligations of his manhood, and the equality of all men before the law; these and various other points were reviewed with arguments that were unanswerable, and an eloquence that thrilled through the hearts of the vast audience present. I have never heard the subject so ably handled and the facts brought up with such irresistible force.

Mr. Lovejoy next briefly reviewed the action of Senator Douglas in connection with his vote for breaking down the Missouri Compromise,—adducing facts which were equally unanswerable.

But the great feature of the speech was upon the Fugitive Slave law. He took the broad ground that it is unconstitutional, and he read from the Constitution the article from which Congress assumes its power to act in the matter, and referred to the language of Madison and others in the debates when the Constitution was adopted. The States alone had power to return fugitives, and not Congress. He denied, too, that slaves owed service to their masters any more than a horse or an ox, because, being property, they were unable to contract for anything. Masters did not sue their slaves to compel them to do service any more than they would sue a horse or an ox for the purpose of compelling such horse or ox to return to service. If slaves run away, they followed and arrested them, and if they refused to work, they whipped it out of them, just as they would either a horse or an ox.—Under no construction of law by which Slavery exists, can it be inferred that Slaves are held in any other way than as property. The clause of the Constitution on which the Fugitive Slave Law was based, was evidently intended to compel the States to deliver up persons who had absconded from one State to another, in order to avoid fulfilling their contracts to perform certain service or labor, and for the failure to do which, the law attached a penalty. Mr. L. declared he was ready to vote for the fulfillment of these requirements of the Federal Constitution at any time, and to deliver up delinquents of every description, even preachers who had agreed to preach for a specified sum and then sought to get out of their contract by absconding.

Mr. Lovejoy next referred to the character of the Law—how it violated all the sanctity of the common law, and compelled freemen to hunt slaves and aid in returning them to slavery. He alluded in the same connection to a case that occurred a few weeks ago, where a woman, delicately formed and highly educated, so white that no trace of African blood could be discovered, and as beautiful as the sisters or wives of any of the members present, had come to his house asking shelter and protection against the libertine who had bought her to gratify his lusts. The Fugitive Slave law would compel him to arrest that poor woman and turn her over to the libertine and ruffian who pursued her. But before he would obey it he would suffer martyrdom. It was in contravention of the Higher Law which commanded him to "feed the hungry and clothe the naked," and he spurned it, as would all men whose hearts were not closed to the appeals of humanity and the dictates of everlasting justice. He was essentially a "Higher Law" man and he would spurn any law which would compel him to give up his manhood.

I cannot pretend to give you even an outline of the speech. It electrified and melted to tears the audience in the gallery and lobby, besides many of the members, and when it was closed Mr. L. was no longer pointed out as the "notorious Abolitionist," but as an enlightened Christian and eloquent defender of free institutions. The speech of Mr. L. has created a profound impression. I have conversed with many persons, who had never before heard an anti-slavery discussion, and who had entertained the most erroneous ideas in reference to the objects of those who occupy the anti-slavery platform; and with scarcely an exception, they say they fully endorse all Lovejoy said.

After Mr. Lovejoy closed, the Rev. Jno. P. Richmond of Schuyler attempted a reply, by first deprecating the existence of the institution of slavery, and then proving by the Mosaic law that slavery is of divine origin. It was an up-hill business, and soon cleared the gallery and lobby. It was something so unnatural to hear a preacher—and especially a Methodist preacher—apologize for and defend slavery, that the audience could not stand it. Dr. R. is an able debater, but there are some things that no man however able, can do, and defending slavery is one of them.

After Dr. R. closed, the several parties expressed a desire to further debate the subject, and it was made the special order for to-morrow afternoon.

The Senate debated the Prohibitory Liquor Law till 10 o'clock at night, and finally adjourned without passing it, though it was read a third time, and as no further amendments can be admitted, the bill will pass when it comes up in its regular order.

Wednesday Evening.

The House was occupied all the morning considering Senate bills. In the Senate the time was occupied in considering the propriety of paying some old claims.

In the afternoon, the special order—Mr. Lovejoy's resolutions—was taken up, and without discussion, the preamble and first resolution were adopted—the first by a vote of 44 to 30; and the second by 37 to 33. The second resolution was defeated, Ayes 33; Noes 40, and the third and last shared the same fate—Ayes 25; Noes 47.

The Preamble, you will observe, takes strong grounds, while the first resolution not only conveys instructions to our Senators, but endorses the doctrine, "No more Slave Territory," in all of its fullness.

The Legislature will probably adjourn a week from to-morrow. The Senatorial question will probably be settled to-morrow, as I think the Senate will go into an election. The contest seems to be between Lincoln and Matteson, with chances in favor of the latter.

NEW YORK—WILD CATS—REFORM COMMITTEE—DESPAIR OF THE GOOD—FERNANDO WOOD TO THE RESCUE.

When in New York the other day, of all my varied observations, I was most impressed with the Mayorality of Fernando Wood. Already the city has gained a new "air," as we say of persons. It carries itself more respectably, more neatly, more decently every way. It appears as if it had concluded, on the whole, that it was about time to be through with the seed time of wild oats, and graduate into a well behaved orderly member of the body politic. It has hitherto disgraced the large American family of brother and sister cities, by its extravagance, its dissipation, its licentiousness, its riotous, reckless and lawless course, but it has concluded to reform, or at least to try how good behaviour will seem. This great change, so unexpected after all the bitter disappointments of former years, after the unavailing efforts of friends and thwarted schemes of guardians, this wonderful conversion has been brought about by FERNANDO WOOD. It is a great fact in the history of the times, and deserves analysis. Here stands New York, the largest city in the Union, healthy, well-watered, well drained, admirably situated every way for health and cleanliness. Moreover a large majority of its inhabitants are orderly, peace-loving, law-abiding, debt-paying, and tax-paying citizens, who are interested in having a well-governed city, not only through character, morals and reputation, but also through self-interest. Both the convenience and the pocket unite in urging economy and uprightness in the administration of public affairs. Yet for the last twenty years this large majority has been so steadily overridden by lawlessness and extravagance in municipal government, that finally they had lost all spirit and sat like the Indian in the oarless canoe above Niagara, calmly awaiting the expected fatal plunge into the vortex of bottomless misrule. Gamblers, drunkards and brothel-keepers had so long controlled the city that the upright and good had come to consider it as a necessity of the times—from which there was no escape except in a philosophical submission.

They had elected Democrats in the hope of retrenchment, reform and a mitigation of taxes and had failed. They had elected Whigs under the pledge of retrenchment and reform, and been even more sadly disappointed. They had elected no party men, and found them equally destitute of principle. Pledges and character seemed unable to stem the tide of temptation which beset the successful winner of official station. They remodelled the charter, hoping by ingenious devices, checks and balances, to hold the public servants to a reasonable accountability. With prodigious effort and by all the appliances of prudent skill, they succeeded in establishing this dam across the waters, which was to protect from inundation; but the first spring freshet of a new set of men, inundated its banks, to so as make it the laughing stock even of its framers. Then came the "Reform Committee" chosen by a united effort of good citizens for one last struggle for the boon of a good Government. Two years ago I noted in a letter to the Tribune, the plans and labors of this reform committee.—They began in the right way by arousing the public indignation through an exposure of the frauds and peculations on the city treasury so bold and enormous as to partake of the sublime. Like men of true worldly wisdom, they appealed to the pockets. Shall we tax-payers endure this longer? they imploringly reiterated in the ears of the public. Thus did they try to rally all good citizens to the support of a ticket selected without reference to party distinctions. This effort was thought to be to a certain extent successful and the good citizens felt better, but some how (the great public hardly knew how) the thing didn't exactly fail, but it fizzled. The people thought they were realizing, or were just about to realize a world of good from the new administration, but somehow they did'nt. The year came round with taxes as bad as ever, gamblers as thick as ever, evening women in Broadway as bold as ever, and the streets not only as dirty as ever, but so unendurably filthy that private enterprise laid hold of the undone duties of the government, and a GENIN appeared, the champion of clean streets; like Washington or Cromwell, the man of his age, brought into distinction by the pressure of the times.

The last election came—Six candidates divided the suffrages of the people. Of these six divisions, five were agreed in one thing, that Fernando Wood, the candidate of saloons, porter houses, and "hells" ought not, must not be elected. All the reputable papers of the city spoke out without screen of his bad character, and the disgrace which his election would ensure. Yet he was elected—and now what is the result? New York has never had such a Mayor; one so uncompromising towards wickedness; so righteous in the administration of law; so considerate and careful, yet so firm and irresistible in the enforcement of long despised statutes; so true and upright and firm. The Press teems with eulogies. The entire city rejoice in his election, except those who voted for him. Of these, nine tenths execrate him, and the one tenth find fun in their own dismay.

Fernando Wood has stopped all sale of liquor on Sunday. The "Metropolitan" and "St. Nicholas" alike with Centre street porter houses, and Five Points, cellars, yield before the steady onset of his charge. He gives fair warning, and then woe to him who is still on the track of a sweeping reform! He has established a "Complaint Book" in which whoever will, may enter a record of any nuisance, abuse, or failure of official duty, of which he is cognizant. The complainant signs his name and address, and the matter is forthwith taken in hand. This "Doomsday Book" is the terror of all sleepy policemen, all throwers of garbage on the pavement, all contractors for street cleaning, all builders of insecure houses, all keepers of disreputable houses. The plan works to a charm. Besides these, the Mayor is commencing reforms of abuses which had become respectable by age, and feared by accumulated power. You have noted these among the daily items of interesting events.

With this development, what are we to think of men and of long tried character? Deceived so often in our public servants, the upright in private turning out faithless in office, the firm becoming "dough," and the bad, righteous, what we shall conclude? We must think of this at our leisure.

FIGURES WON'T LIE.

The Journal of Saturday evening sneers at a remark made in a Leader of ours of that morning, to the effect that the re-election of Wm. H. Seward was secured by Know-Nothing votes and that without them he would have been defeated. Will that contemptible sheet presume to dispute the fact?

The analysis of the vote which elected Mr. Seward shows that in the Senate five Know-Nothings voted for Seward and his majority was five—a clear Know-Nothing majority. In the Assembly his majority was twelve; but had the seven Know-Nothings voting for him opposed him, there would have been a majority against him of two. Thus the vote of each house and the election of Seward were decided by Know-Nothing votes. All the New York papers admit this fact, and attribute it more than all other causes combined, to the predominant Anti-Slavery Sentiment in the State, and throughout the Northern States. If, as the Journal states, no other paper but the TRIBUNE had this news, it is simply because our cotemporaries are always too sleepy to see any thing of importance till we point it out to them.

TEMPERANCE IN INDIANA.

The House of Representatives on Friday passed the liquor law, which has been under discussion in the Legislature for some time. It had already passed the Senate, and is, therefore, now a law of the State. The passage of the law was celebrated by the firing of cannon and the general rejoicing of the friends of temperance. The good work goes on.

SHANGHAIS.—Extract from a poem received from a young lady at boarding school, in answer to the present of a baked Shanghai:—

On Shanghai feathers may you rest;
On Shanghai hen's eggs tread:
May Shanghais rouse you from your dreams
And hover o'er your head:
Nice old Shanghais,
Long-legged Shanghais,
Real blue old Shanghai hens.

And if you're ever left alone
By your companion true,
May I, or some one handsomer,
Cook Shanghai hens for you:
Well fed Shanghais,
Great fat Shanghais,
Real Shanghai hens for you.

OUR WISCONSIN CORRESPONDENCE.

MADISON, Feb. 7, 1855.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—There was quite an exciting debate in the Senate to-day, in which many of the members took part.

About two weeks ago Senator Taylor, from the first district, offered a resolution inquiring what "do." meant in the State Treasurer's Report—after the Governor's salary.

At this resolution some one of the Governor's friends took high dudgeon, and moved that the Hon. Senator (Taylor) be appointed a committee of one to enquire into the matter.

This Mr. Taylor took as an insult; but the Democrats having a majority, passed the resolution, and committed the matter to his charge. The Hon. Senator entered upon the duties of his office, and, in his investigations, found that the "do." was for $600 which the Governor had drawn over and above his salary, and made a very able report on the subject. The democrats by this time found they had caught a Tartar—that Mr. Taylor was not the man to be trifled with, and since he had brought the matter to light, they sat very uneasy in their seats. A motion was made to have five hundred copies of the report printed, but upon this question arose a debate.

Mr. Eldridge spoke against printing the report, and dealt out a shower of abuse or at least a mass of hard words, very unbecoming the honorable Senator. Mr. Harvey at one time called Mr. E. to order.

Mr. Bowen, Mr. Wakely and Mr. Loy, all democrats, advocated the publishing of the report. They thought an insult had been offered to the Senator by appointing him a committee of one, and now since he had made his report, they were determined to vote for printing it.

One gentleman, in order to choke the matter down, offered an amendment that two thousand copies of the Governor's message, and accompanying documents, should also be printed. He wanted to send them to his constituents—whereupon Mr. Bower, not to be outdone in politeness, said that he had quite a number of the above documents on hand, which he would not use, and the Hon. gentleman was welcome to them, offering quite a pile of documents to him.

Mr. Gibson offered to amend the amendment, by adding that a full length portrait of Senator Taylor should be attached to the report.

Mr. Taylor replied that he had not, till then, believed that any gentleman in that Senate Chamber was so low as to offer him such an insult, but he probably did not feel so bad under it as some would; and at any rate he would treat every member on that floor as gentlemen, no matter what their course was to him. He had discharged the duties of that committee faithfully, and had made his report accordingly, not with the expectation that it would be published, but for the purpose of placing the facts of the case fully before the Senate.

The motion to print was carried, Mr. Bowen, Mr. Loy and Mr. Wakely voting with the Republicans.

Mr. Vinton, the Mohawk Dutchman, lectured on Temperance in the Assembly Hall on the night of the 5th. He is a splendid lecturer, and was attentively listened to by a crowded house, whilst he set forth some home truths on the subject of temperance. Wisconsin will undoubtedly have a Maine Liquor law passed by the present Legislature, and when that is done, and since Charles Durkee has been elected to the U. S. Senate, the Republicans in this State may be considered a "fixed fact." Next fall, Wisconsin will roll up an unheard of majority in favor of republican principles, and we can only say to our Democratic friends—

Ye living men come view the ground
Where you must shortly lie.

ALPHO.

FROM WASHINGTON.

In the United States Senate on Wednesday, bills were introduced making appropriations for removing obstructions at Hell Gate, and to improve piers at the mouth of Genesee river; also, for the improvement of the Hudson river. An appropriation was passed to improve the harbor of Newark, New Jersey. A bill appropriating $120,000 for the deepening of the channel of the Patapsco river, and to render the harbor of Baltimore accessible to war steamers, was passed. A number of other bills relating to rivers and public works, were acted on. The bill establishing the United States Circuit Court in California was taken up, discussed and postponed until to-day. Several petitions, urging the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law, were presented, and Mr. Chase said he should call up, at the earliest moment, his bill prohibiting slavery in the Territories.

It is very easy to have appropriations passed for the benefit and safety of Commerce in the East and South, but let the appropriations be designed to do something for the West, and the eyes of members are suddenly opened to its unconstitutionality.

In the House on the same day, in committee of the whole, the Texas Creditors bill was taken up. The amendment of Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, reducing the amount appropriated from $8,500,000 to $6,555,000 was agreed to—120 to 82. The bill afterwards passed by a vote of 154 to 43. The bill provides, in lieu of five millions of dollars, payable to Texas in five per cent United States stock, the issuing of which was restricted by the law of Sept. 9, 1850, $6,550,000, to be apportioned among the holders pro rata, the interest to be determined by the existing laws of Texas, the holders and the State of Texas to release all claims against the United States for and on account of the securities. The act is not to take effect until assented to by the Legislature of Texas, nor until it pass a law withdrawing and abandoning all claims and demands against the United States growing out of Indian depredations or other causes. It is regarded as questionable whether the Senate will agree to this bill; if it does not an effort to adjust differences of opinion through the medium of a Committee of Conference will be made. Mr. Houston moved to again go into committee, announcing his intention of calling up the Tariff bill as a test question. The House agreed to the motion—104 to 97—but refused to consider the tariff by a vote of 95 to 89. There is an evident disinclination to meddle with the subject just at present.

KNOW NOTHINGS IN CONGRESS.

On Monday last Mr. Witte introduced into the United States House of Representatives a preamble and resolution denunciatory of the American Reform movement, as being contrary to the advice of Washington, dangerous to the institutions, and in violation of the Constitution of the United States, and moved a suspension of the rules to have them considered. Objection being made, Wentworth of Illinois moved a call of the House, which was refused. Mr. Witte moved the yeas and nays upon his motion to suspend the rules and said he intended the vote should be regarded as a test. After a discussion, the question was taken upon suspending the rules, which resulted as follows: yeas 104; nays 88.—Two-thirds not voting for it, the motion was lost. The following are the names of members who voted:

YEAS.—J. C. Allen and Willis Allen of Ill., Appleton, Ashe, Bailey of Ga.; Barksdale, Barry, Belcher, Benton, Bliss, Bocock, Boyce, Breckenridge, Bridges, Caskie, Chandler, Chastian, Chrisman, Clarke, Craige, Curtis and Davis of Rhode Island; Davis of Indiana; Dawson, Edmonds, Edmundson, and Elliot of Mass.; Elliot of Kentucky; Ellison, English, Farley, Florence, Fuller, Giddings, Green, Greenwood, Hamilton, Hastings, Hendricks, Henn, Hibbard, Heister, Hill, Hillyer, Ingersoll, Johnson, Jones of Tenn.; Jones of La.; Keitt, Kidwell, Kurtz, Letcher, Lamb, Lilly, Lindsley, Macdonald, M'Dougal, McMullen, McNair, McQueen, Maxwell, May, Miller of Indiana; Morrison, Nichols, Noble, Olds, Orr, Perkins of La., Phelps, Richardson, Riddle, Robbins, Rowe, Ruffin, Russell, Seymour, Shaw, Shower, Simmons, Singleton, Smyth of Tenn., Smyth, of Texas, Stanton, of Ky., Straub, Stuart of Mich., Stuart of Ohio, Taylor of N. Y., Trout, Tweed, Upham, Vansant, Walbridge, Walker, Walley, Walsh, Warren, Washburn of Ill., Wells, Wentworth, of Ill., Witte, Wright of Miss., Wright of Penn.

NAYS—Messrs. Aiken, Bayly, of Va., Ball, Banks, Bennett, Benson, Bugg, Carpenter, Caruthers, Chase, Clingman, Cobb, Cook, Corwin, Disney, Durham, Eastman, Edgerton, Etheridge, Everhart, Faulkner, Fenton, Flagler, Franklin, Goodwin, Gray, Green, Harlan of Ohio, Harlan of Indiana, Haven, Houston, Howe, Hunt, Jones of New York, Kerr, Knox, Latham, Lindley, Lyon, McCulloch, Mace, Matteson, Mayall, Middleswerth, Millson, Morgan, Murray, Oliver of New York, Oliver of Missouri, Parker, Peckham, Pennington, Phillips, Pratt, Pringle, Puryear, Ready, Reese, Ritchie of Penn., Ritchey of Ohio, Rogers, Sabin, Sage, Sapp, Seward, Shannon, Skelton, Sollers, Stanton of Tenn., Taylor of O., Teller, Thurston, Tracy, Wade, Wheeler, Yates, Zollicoffer.

If the above is to be regarded as a test vote, it would puzzle anybody to make out from it that the American reform movement is of a sectional character. Men from all sections, and of all parties and creeds voted both for and against the motion.

TWO SHIPWRECKS—LOSS OF ALL HANDS!—The Liverpool (Nova Scotia) Transcript, of the 25th ult., states that the Schooner Rambler, of Halifax, Patrick Gray, master, from Fortune Bay, N. F., for Boston, with herrings, &c., in bulk, put in for a harbor on the 17th ult., and anchored below Port Point. Her timber, cargo and materials were seen next morning, strewn along the beach a short distance from the wreck of the ship Queen of the Seas. Every body on board perished. Next day the bodies of six of the crew were found, and buried with all proper ceremonies.

The British brig Ann, from Boston for St. John's N. F., is reported to have been totally lost, on the 15th ult., at Garbarous, on the east Coast of Cape Breton. Capt. Henry and all on board are stated to have perished.

WM. H. SEWARD AND HIS PUBLIC SERVICES.

When Wm. H. Seward took into his hands the helm of New York, he found the State engaged in the great work of the enlargement of the Erie canal. A law had then lately been passed for that purpose by a Legislature largely Democratic, and the work had been let to the amount of about $15,000,000. These lettings were made at a time of great credit expansion, and when speculation stalked rampant through the length and breadth of the Union. Nor were the canal Commissioners very conscientious in relation to economizing the funds of the State, but large bids were accepted from party hacks, while others far more favorable to the State were refused. Under these circumstances it is not strange that the canal debt became enlarged to a fearful extent, without the public works being advanced in a corresponding ratio. But now Gov. Seward and a Whig Legislature had succeeded their Democratic predecessors and every eye was turned on them to see with what vigor the work would be urged forward. The West had urged the early enlargement for years, the tables of the Legislature had been loaded with petitions to that effect. It was the great work of the day, the pride of the State, for the railroad mania had not yet commenced. Under these circumstances, the Whig Legislature with Gov. Seward at their head were disposed to urge forward the work to an early completion. But a change came over the spirit of the dreams of their political opponents. They suddenly found out that the enlargement which they themselves had enacted should be speedily completed, was not wanted at all; that the canal as it was, was entirely sufficient for all the purposes of trade. They also for the first time discovered that it would involve the State in debt, and the hue and cry of a forty million debt was rung through the land on all possible points. The consequence was that many became sincerely alarmed.—While these things were transpiring the revulsion of 1837 took place; all property depreciated in value, State stocks among the rest; and to add to the embarrassment of those who had the work in charge, their political opponents used all the means in their power to undervalue those stocks, and they so far succeeded that the stocks could not be sold without material loss. During all this time Gov. Seward had held the helm of government with so steady a hand, that the difficulties thrown in the way of the enlargement were either removed or overcome. With a far seeing penetration and with a statesman like view, he saw clearly that the work must be done at some time, in order to supply the wants of the great West, and if not done at a early period, other lines of communication would be opened either by State or private enterprize, which would draw largely upon the revenues of the Canal. And beside, large sums had been already expended which would lie useless unless the whole line was brought into use. To accomplish this, the work which he found under contract was pushed forward toward a final completion. But when his political opponents saw that through the energy of their political enemy, aided by the wisdom of his whig officers, the great work was actually drawing towards a completion, and that they had suffered the honor of it to slip through their hands, they redoubled their efforts to stop the work. For this purpose the ghost of a forty million debt was continually held up before the people, and a majority of Democrats were returned to the Legislature, who, faithful to their instinct and to advance the interest of the party, proceeded to stop the work of enlargement when sixteen miles was actually finished and brought into use, and the rest was in a state of great forwardness. By this act they subjected the State to heavy damages, and the money since paid to contractors for damages would have been nearly sufficient to have finished the work. Had the wise policy of Gov. Seward been followed, the enlargement would have been completed from Albany to Buffalo, the trade of the great West would not have been diverted from the Canal by competing lines of communication, the work would by this time have paid the cost of construction, and the State would have been receiving a princely revenue.

As a proof of the wisdom of Gov. Seward's policy, we see now, after the lapse of so many years, through which the State has been loosing the interest of the large sums expended on the enlargement as well as the loss in the decay of materials collected, and notwithstanding the facilities offered by other lines of transportation, the capacity of the canal is not sufficient to meet the demand thereon, and the work has to be done, all opposition to the contrary notwithstanding.

In his messages to the legislature, Gov. Seward exhibited that clear-sightedness, that penetration into the future, those comprehensive views of State and National policy that few men have exhibited. He was not alone the Governor of the party which elected him, but of the whole State. Courteous and affable in his manner, modest and unpresuming, he won the affection of all; and even his political enemies were compelled to respect his brilliant talents.

After having filled the Chair of State two terms, he retired from public life, honored and beloved; but here he could not long remain, his worth being too well known and appreciated to be suffered to remain in disuse. Having been elected to the Senate of the United States, he entered on his duties in that august body at the opening of the Session of Congress in the winter of 1849. Here a new field of usefulness was opened to his gigantic mind, the powers of which have proved equal to every occasion. His uncompromising hostility to the extension of the curse of slavery, brought down upon him the whole force of the South. The cry of a dissolution of the Union was rung on every breeze. The timid were frightened and quailed, the vacillating Doughface, hoping to advance his own selfish ends, deserted to the enemy; the struggle against such fearful odds was long and fierce; but Senator Seward came out of the conflict like the pure gold seven times tried. His mighty powers of mind were equal to every emergency; in forensic eloquence he had no superior and few equals. Ever faithful to the interests of his constituents, and careful to protect their rights against Federal encroachments, he still respected the rights of others, and when battling in the front ranks as with the club of an Hercules against the undue extension of the Slave power, he was not unmindful of the rights of the Slave States. Indeed, if any one ever steered successfully between Scylla and Charybdis, Senator Seward must be acknowledged as the man.

During the whole of his Senatorial term, it has been our pride and our boast, that we had, in the Senate, one man, that could not be turned aside from the path of duty, and on whose integrity we could rely. And now the representatives of a grateful people, not feeling willing to dispense with his services, have returned him again to the Senate of the U. S., by an emphatic vote. Nor is there a man in the Union who believes he will falter, if others quail, before the Moloch of the Slave power. Wm. H. Seward will be found as he has ever been, battling for that liberty which our glorious Constitution recognises as the inalienable right of every human being. Nor will this result be appreciated by the citizens of New York alone, nor by the Northern States, but by the intelligent of all lands, for he is the recognized champion of principles, with which freedom, justice, and National greatness are identified. Through his whole public life he has been governed by a a sense of duty, and if he fails, it will be when Justice and Freedom are crushed out of existence. But he will neither fall nor falter; having planted his feet upon the eternal principles of justice, he will stand as a rock against which the waves of fraud and political ambition will beat in vain.

ANOTHER REMEDY FOR THE WILD CAT EVIL.

MR. EDITOR:—

The circulating medium and the currency appear to be two of the most difficult of subjects to deal with: Of these difficulties we have our share, and one of these arises from that large part of our circulating medium which consist of notes payable in Georgia. It appears clear that these notes are the result of a plan to maintain an inconvertable paper currency. As you are aware, the business transactions of the State are principally carried on by "currency," and transactions in gold are few. These Georgia notes are current, though disliked; in a currency transaction they cannot be refused. Thus, if I present a cheque to a bank, drawn by a depositor whose account is in currency, I must take those Georgia notes if the bank tender them. I can't refuse them though the time and cost of converting them into gold would be a serious loss and difficulty. In order to cure this evil, allow me to make a suggestion. It is simply this: To pass a law that in all payments made in currency the Receiver may require to be paid in notes that are convertible into gold at some bank situated within the limits of the State, and that is established and conducted according to the laws of the State. Would not such a law cure the evil in question?

I am, Sir, your obedient,

A. SUBSCRIBER.

THE LEGISLATURE.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

The Deputy Collector of the port of Cleveland, D. W. Cross, publishes in the Herald of that City the following statement of the Commerce by Lake of that port for 1854.

The total Imports coastwise, at Cleveland, for 1853 were $54,081,174; for 1854 $58,487,803; difference in favor of '54 $4,406,629.

Increase in '54 over '53 in the following articles: Salt, 4,394 bbls.; merchandise, 9,128 tons; wheat, 95,985 bush.; barley, 40,141 bush.; potatoes, 89,604 bush.; corn 26,657 bush.

The falling off in sundry articles is as follows: Lumber, 10,111,000 feet; railroad iron, 14,248 tons.

The total exports coast-wise at Cleveland for 1853, were $32,320,521; for 1854, $33,919,629; difference in favor of 1854, $1,598,108.

The increase of exports for sundry articles for '54 over '53 was as follows: corn, 525,062 bushels; merchandise, 8,477 tons; pork, 38,424 bbls.

The falling off in exports of sundry articles was as follows: Wheat, 1,893,969 bushels; flour 392,873 bbls; cheese, 30,154 boxes.

The total Foreign Imports at Cleveland for 1853 were $170,668—for 1854, $561,191. Increase in favor of 1854 $390,523. Total Foreign exports for 1853 were $397,209—for 1854 $469,805. Increase in favor of 1854 $71,596.

Total Exports and Imports for 1853 by Lake, $86,969,572, to which add (as estimated) by Rail Road $15,000,000. Grand total for 1853, $101,969,572.

Total Exports and Imports for 1854 by Lake, $93,438,428, to which add (as estimated,) by Rail Road $23,000,000. Grand total $116,438,428. Increase in favor of 1854, $14,468,856.

This showing, therefore, notwithstanding the partial failure of Ohio staples is exceedingly flattering and foreshadows what the trade of a bountiful, healthful year would be.

Several premature statements, says the Terre Haute Courier, have been published of the number of hogs packed in Terre Haute, but none quite correct. We have taken the pains to have the statement from each house. The packing was not fairly closed until the middle of the present week. The following statement may be relied upon:

Jacob D. Early & Co.	21,649
McGregor & Warren	17,434
Wilson & Co.	11,156
J. L. Humaston & Co.	7,084
H. D. Williams & Co.	6,269
	63,592
Barbour & Co.—Durkee's Ferry	3,838
	67,430
Beef cattle packed by H. D. Williams & Co.	3,155

The number of hogs packed last year by same houses was 73,167, showing a falling off this year of 5,737. It is also stated that hogs are much lighter the present season, making a still larger deficiency in the amount of pork.

The Toledo and Illinois, and Lake Erie, Wabash and St. Louis Railroad Companies, have just concluded a negotiation for one million of their Second Mortgage Bonds. The list of takers is very strong. The Road from Toledo to Huntington (120 miles) is to be pushed forward at once, and opened for travel in June next. The Companies, not liking to depend for the completing the Road to La Fayette (Ind.) upon the sale of Second Mortgage Bonds, have reserved $922,000 of the First Mortgage to negotiate under a more favorable state of the market. The expenditure thus far has been $4,700,000; and for the total completion of the line (242 miles) the Companies own the $922,000 of First and $1,000,000 of the Second Mortgage Bonds, which will, it is believed, furnish ample means. During all the severity of the times the Treasurer has negotiated $2,400,000 of Bonds—none under 90 per cent. and accrued interest. We believe a bonus of 10 per cent. in stock was allowed on half a million of Bonds sold during the extreme pressure of August last. This line completed, extending from Toledo (Ohio) the most fertile of all vallies—the Wabash connecting with the Great Western and Hannibal, and St. Joseph's, and other prominent lines running west—must be considered one of the most important lines of the country, and has among its share and bondholders some of our strongest men. We congratulate our western friends on the prospect of an early completion of this highly important route.

Clover seed was brisk and firm in Baltimore on Tuesday at $7.

The New York Banks now hold a larger amount of specie than was ever before within their vaults.

Business is rapidly increasing at New Orleans. The New Orleans Price Current, states that

"There have been quite free arrivals of produce from the interior during the past week, especially of our leading staple, cotton, and business to a fair extent has been transacted, though the operations in several articles would doubtless have been to a considerably greater amount, had it not been for advanced rates of freight and the difficulty of effecting exchange negotiations even at reduced rates."

The House of Representatives of the Indiana Legislature on Wednesday afternoon ordered the Free Bank bill to be engrossed.

The branch of the Commercial Bank of Kentucky, situated at Versailles, has got into a difficulty that will not help its credit any. A broker named John L. Barclay, returned the circulation of the bank for redemption in quantities that were rather large for their convenience. A feeling was gotten up against the brokers, and Friday last being County Court day at Versailles a public meeting was called, to sustain the Bank, and guaranteeing her ability to redeem the circulation whenever presented. The interruption Mr. Barclay met with, was occasioned by excitement against the gentleman personally, on the part of the people of the county, the latter believing that the "weekly runs" made by said Barclay were caused by hostility on his part to the Bank.

The following resolutions were rejected by decided majorities.

Resolved, That we are satisfied that no person will be injured or interfered with who may come to Versailles for the [collection] of money from the bank.

Resolved, That the paper is redeemable upon demand, and the entire public may rest assured that no obstacle or outrage will be offered to any person presenting it for payment at Versailles.

The people of Versailles have therefore declared, that they will not allow a "run" to be made on the bank by Brokers. The proceedings are disreputable to the people who took part in the meeting; and unless the bank is doubly strong, it will be unable to maintain its standing. The officers of the Bank say they discountenance the proceeding, but their disclaimer comes too late to prevent a general distrust.

The Baltimore American, of Wednesday says:

A part of the cargo of Rio Coffee received a few days since per ship Banshee, was sold to-day at auction by Messrs. Stevenson & Brogden. Of the 5,000 bags advertised, some 2,600 bags were sold a day or two since by private contract, and consequently only about [illegible] bags were offered to-day. Of this quantity about 2,400 bags were sold, mostly in small lots, at prices ranging from $9,05 to $9,85 per 100 lbs, and the balance, about 600 bags, was withdrawn. The Coffee sold was of common to fair quality, and the prices obtained show a decline of 1-8 to 1-4 of a cent as compared with the last auction sale. There was nothing done to-day by the Brokers, the attention of dealers being entirely directed to the auction sale. Since our last we note the arrival of the schooner Kent, from Rio, with a cargo of 2,300 bags.

We have heretofore noticed the application of the Panama Railroad Company to the New York Legislature, for an enlargement of Capital privilege. The present Capital 5,000,000, is entirely represented by Shares and Bonds convertible into shares, viz:

Capital Stock issued,	$2,874,572
Bond liable to conversion,	2,125,428
Total	$5,000,000

This puts the Road through from Ocean to Ocean, but not complete, and the obligations of the Company for equipment and other outlay, amount to $800,000, and to make the piers, depots, and other facilities for the immense transit trade across the Isthmus, in the shape of merchandise, which in the absence of all probability of a Canal between the Atlantic and Pacific, will offer to the Company, the farther expenditure of $1,200,000 is likely to be desirable. These two sums, the Board of Directors, pursuing a uniform policy, would fund in a Convertible shape; so that the Company may in a few years be entirely free from debt; having a compact share capital of $7,000,000.

Illinois 6 per cent. bonds, improvement of 1847, worth 89 cents in New York at last dates.

REJOICINGS OVER SEWARD'S ELECTION.

The Buffalo Express gives the following account of the popular rejoicings over the re-election of William H. Seward to the Senate:

"A salute of three hundred guns, in honor of the election of William H. Seward, was fired in the City Hall Place, commencing when the election was announced from the Capitol. The thirty-three pounder employed has not been brought into requisition since the election of 1840.

The Third Ward Boys are to fire one gun for each vote cast for Mr. Seward, this afternoon, from the steamboat landing.

The old Whig enthusiasm has not run so high these many days. Mr. Seward's election is a National triumph.

The gallant Whigs of the 8th Ward are firing a salute on Harbor Hill."

A telegraph despatch dated at 9 P. M., but which did not reach us till yesterday morning, says—"Albany is in a blaze of glory. State-st., from the Capitol to Broadway as far as the eye can reach, is glowing with burning bonfires for the election of Seward."

Horrible Affair.

From a private letter dated Paton, Cape Girardeau county Missouri, we are permitted to make the following extract:

"An atrocious murder and house burning took place on Wednesday night last, within eight miles of this place. A young man by the name of Buckner, some time since married a widow who had a daughter nearly grown. Not long after they were married Buckner seduced the young lady, or, as some say, ravished her. Since which time, Buckner, the old lady and the girl have been quarreling and fighting. On Wednesday night last Buckner returned home after an absence of some two months, when his wife caught him and held him, while her daughter killed him with an axe! To hide all traces of their work they then set fire to the house, consuming the body of Buckner in the flames. What led to a discovery of the murder was, the circumstance of Buckner being absent so long, and some of the neighbors seeing him come home on Wednesday evening. They saw no more of him, so they went to raking and searching among the coals and ashes of the burnt house and found some bones, which excited fearful suspicions. An inquest was held on yesterday, and they were declared to be human bones. All the parties concerned have been arrested except the young woman. Mrs. Buckner has made a full confession."—Mo. Repub.

ATTENTION TO BUSINESS.—As an evidence of the attention and care bestowed upon the business entrusted to the Michigan Southern Railroad, we mention a circumstance which came to our knowledge yesterday. The Superintendent, Mr. Moore, after having been busily occupied here in removing the obstructions on the road, left a day or two since for Adrian. On his arrival at White Pigeon, he found that a freight train with live stock of the most valuable kind had been detained there for over a week by the snow, to the great inconvenience and loss of the owner. Mr. Moore immediately took charge of the train, and putting it before the express train, in person conducted it to this city. Without delay, he immediately put himself in charge of a heavy train for Adrian, and immediately retraced his way. When such energy is displayed by the officers of the road, it is the best guaranty to shippers, that everything that can be done will be done to expedite the transmission and delivery of freight.—Times.

The Rockville, Ind., ladies who took the liquor sellers in hand a few days ago, as we noticed in the Journal, have reported the success of their operations. On the 23d inst., they went round to the groceries at which they had left their menacing petition, and received the following answers. Of those who refuse to quit, the ladies say:

"We sincerely hope they will, upon timely reflection, retract their answers at an early period; if not, they will have to abide the consequences of their business, which can now be read in the feelings, the sentiments, and the will, of an outraged and injured public."

Here are the replies of the sellers:

"I will quit when my license runs out; that will be the 1st of April, 1855. WM. FELTZ."

"I am willing to quit the business when I get rid of my present stock. I wish I was clear of it now. MR. MCCANE."

"My month is out in eight days; I will quit then. ADAM FOGLE."

"I will sell as long as the law allows me. MRS. MYERS."

"I will quit in four weeks from next Monday—sooner if I can dispose of my present stock. F. RUHAM."

"I will sell so long as the law allows me. I am a FREE man. GEO. SCHMIT."

"When the law says I shall stop, then I will. WM. LANSEY."

"When the law says I SHALL quit, then I will. MR. WHEAT."

"Stop the business at Wheat's, then I will quit. SAM SHEPPERD."

"I sell nothing but beer, and have not sold anything else. MR. FREDERMAN."

"OUR CHURCH DIRECTORY.—We make today alterations that have become necessary in our Church Directory. Will persons interested in the several places of Worship keep us posted on such changes as may occur, or inaccuracies that may still remain. The Times and Tribune which have adopted our list without credit, will please notice the corrections."

The above paragraph is from the Journal of Saturday afternoon, and is as full of lies as an egg is of meat. They are lies, too, "so open gross and palpable" that they only serve to make that sheet more contemptible and ridiculous than it ever was before. Mark now, how plain a tale will nail the falsehood down.

For some months past, the Journal has kept standing in its columns, a list of some of the churches in the city, which it now complacently designates "Our Church Directory." Heaven save the mark! If people went to church by THAT directory, they would be coming into church in the evenings after the sermons had commenced, and be going to churches in the afternoon where there was no service held till evening. So much for the Journal's directory.

Some two weeks ago we commenced the preparation of a church directory, which we intended to be a directory, and one that would be of real service to the whole community as well as to strangers stopping over Sunday in the city.—For this purpose we either called upon or wrote to every clergyman in the city, requesting to be informed of the hours of holding worship in their respective churches, and from the information thus derived our directory has been compiled.

And now, who has done the "copying without credit." Had we not published our Directory on last Saturday morning, our sleepy cotemporary would never have dreamed of making the "necessary alterations" of which he so complacently speaks, but would have continued to inform the public that service commenced in the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches at half past seven o'clock in the evening, that Mr. McLaughlin was the Priest at St. Patrick's church, and that there was no minister at the New England Church.—When however, on Saturday morning, we published our Directory, it was easy for the Journal to take advantage of it. We had found and published the correct hours. The Journal copied them. We had found that Father McLaughlin had been dead for six months, and that Father Dunn officiated in his place. The Journal strikes out Mr. McLaughlin, and chops in Mr. Dunn.—We had found that the Rev. Mr. Holbrook was settled in the New England Church, and straightway, also, the Journal's eyes are open to that fact. And so on to the end of the chapter. The Journal steals our list, and then raises a cry of "stop thief!"

[illegible]

We are indebted to Hon. RICHARD YATES, M. C. for sundry Congressional favors of more than ordinary value.

The Chicago Artists' Union.

On Saturday last, we called at the Book-Store of Messrs. Hunton & Bradley, No. 81 Lake st., for the purpose of examining the fine collection of paintings on exhibition there. The paintings which are here brought together are the works of some of the most eminent American Artists, and are to be disposed of by subscription for the benefit and encouragement of the Chicago Artists' Union. The collection is by no means full as yet, but it is constantly receiving new accessions, and already embraces a number of very beautiful and highly valuable paintings. Among them is an elegant and correct copy of Trumbull's celebrated portrait of Washington, some winter landscapes, and some pictures of game, which struck us as being particularly fine.

We recommend our citizens to call and examine these beautiful works of art. The subscription price of the tickets for the distribution is $3, and is therefore within the reach of almost every one.

Washington's Birth Day.

Our readers will see by reference to our advertising columns, that the Washington Regiment of Chicago will celebrate the approaching anniversary of the birth-day of the Father of his country, by a parade of the Regiment, and a public meeting at South Market Hall. At the latter place, an address will be delivered by MAJOR JOHN LEWIS PEYTON, before the Mayor and Common Council, and the military and citizens assembled. Two hundred and fifty seats are to be reserved for ladies. A rich intellectual treat may be expected. The orator is worthy of the occasion.

We believe also that a beautiful pair of colors is to be presented to the Regiment sometime in the course of the day.

Weekly Promenades.

We are glad to learn that the Social Party at West Market Hall, on last Tuesday evening, proved so satisfactory and pleasant to all parties concerned, that the managers, Messrs. Kinney and Hubbell, have determined to give a series of them, to take place every Thursday evening. The first one will take place next Thursday evening. It is the intention of the managers to make these parties unexceptionable in every respect, and they certainly are able to do it.

The Lake House.

We are pleased to learn that the Lake House, of this city, under the administration of its new proprietors, Messrs. BOARDMAN & SABLER, is doing an excellent business, and is rapidly becoming popular among the travelling community. We can safely say, that travellers stopping at the Lake House, will find there the best of accommodations, and polite and attentive hosts.

BEAUTIFUL BANNER.

At the studio of Mr. Wm. S. McMasters, 131 Lake street, that artist has in progress of painting one of the handsomest Banners we have seen. It is for the Hibernian Benevolent Society of this city. Its dimensions are six by seven and a half feet, painted on a green silk foundation.—The front side is not yet painted. The reverse, which is about completed, has a full size portrait of Washington, from the original by Stuart, which is as finely painted as if for framing for a parlor, and is surrounded by a wreath of myrtle. Above this is the Illinois coat of arms—beneath it, the ancient Irish coat of arms. In a semicircle above the portrait of Washington is the title: "Chicago Hibernian Benevolent Society," in gilt letters three inches in length; and in a similar manner below, is the date of organization and of the charter of the society. Surrounding the whole of this is a large wreath of Irish Shamrock and American oak leaves blended—emblematic of the Americanized nature of the adopted citizens who compose the society. The front side will be still more emblematic and entirely artistic in its nature. When completed, it will be worthy of this artist and of the noble objects of the society. Take a look at it as you pass there.

A DETERMINED POET.

The other day we received a communication signed "Q." and purporting to be an poem on the loss of the Arctic. Who "Q" is, we do not know, nor did we then stop to inquire, but, reading the communication, found its metre to be rough and inelegant. We did not think it possessed sufficient intrinsic merit to atone for these defects, and accordingly rejected it in next day's paper, stating our reasons for the rejection. The inspired "Q." however, determined not to be baulked of his immortality, took his communication to the Times, and had it published in that sheet on Saturday morning, accompanied with some editorial remarks, accusing us of rejecting the communication upon personal motives. This could hardly be, as to this day we are unaware of who "Q" is. We do not know him from "O," "P" or "R." However, to show whether our taste was too fastidious or not, we glean a few gems from the published pome.

In the second verse we have the following startling beauty:

> * * * her keel
> Cuts the blue waves, which staggering reel,
> Alarms
> Disarmed
> Her gallant crew, &c.

What had the blue waves taken to drink, that made them "staggering reel?" Did anybody ever see waves "staggering?" Do they not always take too much water with their grog, to allow such unseemly behavior? What the next two lines mean, we are at a loss to know: "Alarms dis-armed." What alarms, and what disarmed them? Did the unusual sight of the "staggering reeling" waves alarm the gallant crew, or disarm their alarm? And then the beautiful rhyme made by the two words "Alarms" "Dis-armed"—that is not rough! Oh no!

The third line of the first verse has eight syllables—the same line of the second has six; of the third, ten, and so on. The piece is full of such beauties as these:

> "Oh God
> The Rod"—
> "But see,
> 'Tis he"—
> "A lunge

and the whole production is far below the sublime character of its subject, as doggerel can get. "Rejected upon ungrounded criticism," though. Yes, of course it was.

The Times-Editor has added to his former sole occupation—the "vindicator" of the grog-shops of the city—the additional duty of befriending and defending the poets, whose communications chance to be rejected by the "unfounded criticisms" of the TRIBUNE. He is a perfect Don Quixotte, and with Post Master Cook for a Sancho Panza, and Mayor Millikin for a Rosinante, will cut a figure in the world yet. See if he don't. He will have his hands full, however, if he attends to the redress of the injuries of all the rejected—for on an average we consign to the stove or to the address of the unappreciated wooers of the Muses, two epic poems, six sonnets, eighteen doggerels, and twenty-five sentimental effusions every week.

BY TELEGRAPH.

REPORTED EXPRESSLY FOR THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.—Gen. Wilson, Senator from Massachusetts, appeared, was qualified and took his seat.

A communication was received from the Secretary of the Treasury in relation to the Seances and the value of certain foreign coins.

Mr. Seward gave notice that he should introduce divers bills for the improvement of harbors.

The bill for the improvements of the Lakes, appropriates $100,000 each for Lakes Superior, Ontario, Erie and Michigan, and $100,000 for lakes Huron and St. Clair together, and $125,000 for lake Champlain. It was argued that the Secretary of War, the officer in charge of those improvements would have too much discretionary power, but it was answered that he had only power to apply the money appropriated judiciously, and was not to judge of the constitutionality of the appropriation. On this point the debate was carried on by Messrs. Wade, Clayton, Hunter, Bayard, Stuart, Rusk, and Seward; the last submitting an amendment. In the bill, the Buffalo, Oswego, Dunkirk, Rochester, Sodus and Little Sodus Bays, those of Conneaut, Cleveland, and Burlington, Vt., as all the other lakes and harbors in the States mentioned in the bill vetoed last year.

The bill was then recommitted to the Committee on Commerce, on motion of Mr. Bayard, with instructions to report specific appropriations.

Sundry bills from the house of Representatives were then received, and referred to appropriate committees, with the exception of that which divides the State of Illinois into two judicial districts, which was discussed and passed.

One or two flaws detected in their passage a second time, and one of the Senators thought there must be a screw loose somewhere in the management of the recording offices.

Mr. Mallory offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of War, for correspondence between the Secretary of War and Interior, respecting the claim of the Commissioner of Indian affairs to the military reservation at Fort Leavenworth, together with the result of his investigation of the alleged interference of certain army officers, stated in the recent report of said commissioner, with the rights of the Delaware Indians. Adopted.

A resolution was also adopted on motion of Mr Morton, calling for copies of the agreement made with Everett, Brown, Gilbert and Secor, Contractors, in reference to the testing of the Dock Railway and Basin at the Pensacola Navy Yard.

HOUSE.—The bill for the relief of Messrs. Moore and Hascall, proposing to extend their patent for their Harvesting Machine was then considered.

Messrs. Tracy, Stuart of Michigan, McMullen, Bridges, Hughes and Clark spoke in favor of it, and Messrs. Sage, Burton, Perkins of N. Y., Good and Lyon against it, when the bill was reported to the House with a recommendation that the enacting clause be stricken out. This was concurred in by a vote of 96 to 34, and the bill was thus rejected.

PENNSYLVANIA U. S. SENATOR.

Harrisburgh, Feb. 10.

Hon. S. Cameron was nominated by the American Caucus as their candidate for U. S. Senator at half past two o'clock this A. M. On the 5th ballot Cameron had 46, Scattering 46, being one ballot more than there were voters present.—Much excitement ensued. On the 6th ballot Cameron had 46, Curtis 41, Scattering 1. A fraudulent ballot was therefore again deposited, defeating the nomination and members bolted.

On the 7th ballot, Cameron had 44, Curtis 11 and Fuller 2; great numbers having left the caucus. A resolution was adopted making the nomination unanimous.

A row is anticipated on Tuesday when both Houses meet to proceed to the election.

Cincinnati, Feb. 10.

The Maine Law passed the House at Indianapolis, to-day.

Cincinnati, Feb. 10.

The Maine Law has passed the House at Indianapolis to-day, and is now a law. Great rejoicing at Indianapolis in consequence. The Grand Jury have found bills against 23 liquor sellers and are not yet through. They have also indicted the managers of prize concerts.

Ogdensburgh, Feb. 10.

Mr. Whitson, keeper of the toll-gate near Antwerp was murdered on Thursday night in his own house. The assassins escaped.

Baltimore, Feb. 10.

New Orleans papers of Friday and Saturday, are received. The loss by the destruction of the Trouball and Edwards foundry, and H. S. Stone and Co's. grocery warehouse amounted to $150,000. Wm. Young was hung at New Orleans for the murder of his child. He had cut his throat a day or two previous to his execution, and when taken to the gallows he was in a dying condition.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 9.

Mobile papers are at hand. The New Orleans mail has not arrived.

The weather in Mobile was unusually severe, and in Columbus and Aberdeen, Miss., an unprecedented snow storm had occurred.

New York, Feb. 10.

The Supreme Court refused this morning to discharge the Mexican Consul from the suit brought by his government for mal-appropriation of a portion of the Mexican indemnity, which passed through his hands. His bail was reduced to $3,000.

The steamship Union sailed to-day for Southampton and Havre, with 15 passengers and $25,000 in specie.

New Orleans, Feb. 10.

A portion of an expedition against Cuba is understood to have left this and other Southern ports with more to follow soon. The total enlistment in this enterprise it is said amounts to 30,000.
